

Article appeared on page Pt. 1 -26

LOS ANGELES TIMES
21 December 1978

CIA Chief Plans to Resign Rank, Collect Pension

WASHINGTON (UPI)—CIA Director Stansfield Turner is retiring his admiral's commission in the Navy Dec. 31 but will remain as head of the intelligence agency, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The move will allow Turner, 54, to collect a $20,000 yearly pension in addition to his $57,500 salary as CIA chief. Agency spokesman Herbert Hetu said Turner had been considering leaving active duty for some months.

By retiring before Jan. 10, however, Turner avoids coming under a new legal provision, effective on that date, that will end the practice of "double-dipping"—collecting a civilian government salary at the same time as a military pension.